

Valerie B. Prince, of Cabragh West Research, is an expert genealogist based in Dublin, Ireland. During a career in software development she cultivated a keen interest in family history research, launching her own research firm and eventually being hired on by the biggest corporate name in the field, Ancestry.com. After five years researching on behalf of the company's private clients, television/documentary production companies, and public relations pieces, she has returned to Cabragh West with an eye toward engaging more people in learning about their links to our beautiful and historically rich Ireland.

Valerie has researched for television shows like "Who Do You Think You Are?" (US), "DNA Journey" (UK), "The Queen and Her Cousins" (UK), and the award-winning "Our African Roots" (Australia).

Recently, she discovered that actors Melanie Lynskey ("Yellowjackets" and "The Last of Us") and Jeremy Strong ("Succession") have Irish ancestral lines hailing from counties Mayo and Galway, respectively.
